POETRY.

A LAY OF THE LAND OF BURNS. The auld wife sits by the fire When winter nights are lang, And aye as she turns her wheel She croons some auld Scotch sang. The wheel, with a birr and a hum, Goes round as she plies her rock;

The grey cat purs by the fire, And tic-tac goes the clock. The auld wife ance was young-As each auld wife has been; But mickle of joy and sorrow Came youth and age between; And she sings and she talks of past years When naebody's by to hear;
And sometimes the auld body laughs, And sometimes she drops a tear.

She thinks o' the blithesome times When young herds came to woo-"Wha'd think it to see me noo!" She thinks of the merry bells That rang when at kirk she wed-And then of the mouldy stane

That laps the guidman's head. "My puir auld man is gane-His bairns forget to weep; And sae 'twill be with me, When I sleep the kirkyard sleep. Bells for bridals will ring— The auld will gie place to the young; Summer will come and go, And auld wives' sangs be sung!" A DREAM-IN CHILDHOOD.

I was not nine years old when I dreamt what I am about feebly to describe. Well may I remember the time, from the deep sensations of delight and awe-of most solemn pleasure-which the vision excited in me. My father was ill, and supposed to be in danger; and perhaps the anxious faces about me impressed me with perhaps the auxious lacements that I was in the feeling of curiosity, alarm, and pain,—in the conflict of which I fell asleep. I dreamt that I was in the same garden in which I had been playing during the day—at the farther end of it, some little distance from the house—chasing two or three of my playmates round one of the beds, and joining them in one continued peal of laughter as we ran our heedless course. It was the dusk of a beautiful summer evening. Round and round we ran, trampling here and there upon the flowers, and laughing more loudly the faster we flew. When suddenly as I came, in one of these giddy turns, to the right-hand corner of the garden, I saw standing in the dusk, close in the angle of the wall—simply, a in the dusk, close in the angle of the wall—simply, a jonal at the same instant I lost sight of the same instant I lost sight and the same instant I lost sight of the same instant I lost sight in factors.

I witted States of America, both of Massachusetts. Substants in the District Court of the United States for this District, I hereby give notice that a libel is filed before said Court, by Charles Stilphin, of Boston, of said District, House Wright, against a certain Steam Boston, wherein said Stilphin claims damages for certain labor on work by him performed on said Steamboat, and also materials furnished, and money expended, in and on the same, as is more particularly set forth in said Libel; and that trial will be had on said Libel, at a special District Court, to be held at Boston, on the 22d day of January, current—All persons interested will take notice, and govern themselves accordingly.

I will be factor of Mass of my companions. There stood the boy in the very garb then worn, as it now is. I stopped, in surprise, but not in the least alarm, to see him there, where he had certainly not been a minute before.

Wondering how he could have dropped over the wall, I advanced a step towards him, and asked—something—how he got over into the garden, and what he wanted. On the instant it grew dark, and the corner in which the mysterious visitor stood, deepened into a thick shade, through which I could just see the eyes of the boy fixed with a calm, kind expression upon my face. He made no answer to my salutation, and a feeling of alarm began to seize on my heart,—it was quite dark and my playmates had fled. I faltered back a step or two, and called out in a trembling voice "father!" I then saw the boy's eyes brighten, and Wondering how he could have dropped over the "father !" I then saw the boy's eyes brighten, and assume a more compassionate expression than before; they were so fixed upon me that I could not stir from the spot, and I again essayed to call upon my father .-As I repeated the word, a pale bluish light began to kindle in the dark nook wherein the boy stood, and he spoke in accents the most sweet and musical-"He is already called!" (I seem to hear the music of those words as I write them)-I saw that it was an angel standing before me-and the vision is present to my eyes now, most beautiful, as then it was. The light grew momently brighter, warmer, and more heavenly, throwing the most exquisite colours upon the shrubs and flowers, and diffusing itself over all the garden. In the midst of it, the angel slowly ascended - what had been his blue coat flowed in beautiful waves about his feet, and floated on the light-bright golden hair fell over his shoulders, and his divine face realized to my childish sight all that has since been more faintly imaged to me in the creations of poetry. And so dazzled, awed, but delighted, I awoke.

Child as I was, I understood the spirit of the expression "He is already called!" and believed for a long time that heaven itself had revealed to me the fact that my father was to die. Those to whom, the next morning, I related my dream, weeping bitterly, as I had wept all night-shared, with a pardonable weakness, my childish apprehension, and regarded the dream as an omen. Yet the object of our affection and anxiety lived many, many years afterwards.

ANECDOTE OF THE EMPEROR JOSEPH II.

This monarch was very fond of adventures incognito, and oftentimes met with many amusing enough .-Before the French Revolution, when Belgium was under his sway, he would frequently repair to Brussels, and take up his abode at the palace of Laeken, in the neighborhood of the city. One day he was driving tended only by one servant out of livery, and attired as plainly as possible, when it began to rain rather heavily. He had not proceeded far when he overtook an old soldier of one of the invalid regiments, who stopped on the road as though he wished to accost him .-The Emperor drew up, and the old soldier, after many apologies, begged to be allowed a seat in the calashe; "for," said he, "I am one of the invalids, and at the private cost of his Majesty; so you see, sir, I am bound to be careful of my uniform, which the cover of your carriage will shelter."-" Jump in, my brave fellow," said the Emperor, " we will take care of your uniform." After he was seated by his side, the Emperor asked him where he had been on the road that morning. "Oh," said the old man, "I have had such a treat; I have been to breakfast with one of the | Cornhill, or at No 21 Sommerset st. Emperor's gamekeepers :" and he smacked his lips at the recollection. "What have you eaten there that WAR SALE, CHEAP-A Bill against S F. Lancey was so very good?" asked his Majesty - "Gness" for provisions, amounting to seventeen dollars and thirty was so very good ?" asked his Majesty .- " Guess." -"How can I tell ?-perhaps some fried fish ?!'-"Better than that ; try again."-" A bit of roast veal?"-"Better than that ; try again."-" Ah, I can't guess any more," said Joseph .- " A pheasant, my worthy SEAVER & CO., 5 Liberty square. sir; a pheasant!" said the veteran, "taken from his Majesty's own preserve. What think you of that for a breakfast?" "Why" said the Emperor, "If it were taken from the royal preserve, it must be good."

HARLES WADE,—Ship & Real Estate Broker, a breakfast?" "Why" said the Emperor, "If it Refer to Messrs LEVI BARTLET, of LUKE BALDWIN.

As they approached the town, the Emperor asked his companion where he would like to be set down? "Ah, Sir, you are too good;" said the old man, "any where will suit me."—No, no! where do you live?" inquired the Emperor. The veteran thea told him, and asked whom he had to thank for such a favor. "Guess," said his Majesty.—" Why, I should say that you were a military man; perhaps a lieutenant," hazarded the veteran .- "Better than that ; guess again." - "A capfain?"-Better than that; guess again."-"Ah! perhaps a colonel ?"-"Better than that ; guess again "-"The devil !" ejaculated the old man, in a very small voice, and making himself into the smallest possible compass; "then you must be a general, or, perhaps, even a field martial!"-"Better than that; guess again."-My God!" said the old solder, trembling from head to foot, "you are the Emperor himself!" The carriage was too small to allow him to go on his knees, but he prayed his Majesty, to allow him to get out. "What?" said the Emperor, "you have eaten my pheasant, and now you want to get rid of me as quick as you can. No, no, you do not part with me till you get to your very door; and there the Emperor put the old soldier down.

Note high repute and extensive sale of Rowland's Macrossur S. Oil, throughout the world, has induced speculators to imitate the label—even to forgery, and impose upon the public base imitations, instead of the original.

Also, adventurers to gain a triffe more profit, have introduced into the United States counterfeit imitations, composed of deleterious ingredients, injurious to the hair, to the serious injury of the proprietors and the public.

To prevent such imposition, A. Rowland & Son, respectfully solicit particular attention on purchasing the original Macrossar Oil; each bottle is enclosed with a treatise on the hair in an envelope, tastfully executed, with the names of his agents was previous. There is 5625 feet of land well fenced, belonging to the estate it would be exchanged for a Cottage within 3 miles of Boston, if a chance offered. For further particulars apply to HOSEA SARGENT, No 67 Long Wharf, the present owner.

This Oil is the original and genuine, which has been for many years universally admired, and acknowledged superior to all others. It possesses wonderful properties in restoring the hair on parts of the head that were previously bald, proved by testimonials received from the most distinguished personages in all parts of the globe, and prevents the hair from folling off, or turning gray, to the latest period of life; generates with infancy ample growth of beautiful hair, and will-sustain it in perfection though all stages of existence.

Subduing all relaxing tendencies, it firmly keeps the hair in curl and other decorative formation, during many hours, unimpaired by damp weather, crowded assemblies, the dance, or even equestrian exercise.

This incomparable Oil is the friend of both sexes; for, while it facilitates the progress of female beauty, it enhances, by producing whishers mostaching &c. the graces of manhoad.

of ine-timable value in cases of common Sore Throats and Colds—disordered state of the Stomach and Bowels—such as habitual Costiveness—Indigestion—Flatulency—Nausea and Vomiting. Also, in cases of weakness arising from Fever and all debilitating diseases—such as Consumption, &c—it will be found very beneficial as a cathartic and altrative, as it neither causes debility, nor does it, as is the case with the operation of most medicine, so readily dispose one to take cold.

The Vegetable Extract has now been some time before the public, and its great powers justly tested. Hundreds of individuals have successfully tried it, and several eminent Physicians are in the almost daily use of it in their practice, who are truly astonished at its great curative qualities, and are ready to give their testimony in favor of its efficiency and power. There now remains but one obstacle in the way of its very general use, and that is, the price. The proprietors, being desirous to obviate this difficulty, have therefore determined to reduce the price to 62½ cents per bottle, for one year, ed to reduce the price to 62½ cents per bottle, for one year, which barely remunerates for the great expense of preparing the article—this will bring it within the means of every person, so that no one need suffer for the want of it—and the poor man be able to obtain it for himself and family, as well as the sigh.

N. B. Should any one still feel scrupulous of what is here stated, relative to the Vegetable Extract, and will call on one of the proprietors, No 118 State street, Boston, besides the recommendations which will accompany each bottle, other abundant and most satisfactory evidence will be exhibited respecting it.

INITED STATES.

To the Senate and House of Representatives

Gentlemen. In my message at the opening of your ses-in, I informed you that our Charge d'Affaires at Paris e French Government, in relation to the payment of the 1831, and that when advices on the result should be re-ceived, it would be made the subject of a special communi-

But the french Minister of the case and the treaty unconditions in the feelings of friendship, and to unite the two nations in the amount of the case and the circumstance of the case and the circumstance of the case and the circumstance of th debt acknowledged by all the branches of her Government to be due, that certain explanations shall be made, of which she dictates the terms. These terms are such as that Government has already been officially informed cannot be dieself and occasion to speak, and, in respect to a particular contingency, to express my conviction. How ernment has already been officially informed cannot be tion that reprisals would be best adapted to such an emer-complied with; and, if persisted in, they must be considered as a deliberate refusal on the part of France to fulfil gency. Since that period, France, by all the departments of her Government, has adverted as a deliberate refusal on the part of France to fulfil gency. Since that period, France, by all the departments of her Government, has adverted as a deliberate refusal on the part of France to fulfil gency. ered as a deliberate reliased of nations, and held sa-engagements binding by the laws of nations, and held sa-ered by the whole civilized world. The nature of the act which France requires from this Government, is clearly set forth in the letter of the French Minister, marked No 4. We will pay the money, says he, when "the Government of the United States is ready, on its part, to declare lieved that she can have determined permanently to retain and make it a conditional act on the part of the French to us, by addressing its claim to us officially, in writing, that she regrets the misunderstanding which has arisen between the two countries; that this misunderstanding is founded on a mistake; that it never enterstanding is founded on a mistake; that it never entered into its intention to call in question the good faith of the French Government, nor to take a menacing attitude towards France;" and he adds, "if the Government of the United States does not give this assurance ment of the United States does not give this assurance of the published the letter of Mr. Rives ment of the United States does not give this assurance we shall be obliged to think that this misunderstanding other remedies, you, as the representatives of the people, to the world, and the consequence was, that a high degree is not the result of error. In the letter marked No 6, but the French Minister also remarks, that "the Government the French Minister also remarks, that "the Government thrown in the least injurious to our Chambers. This was the first impediment thrown in the of the United States knows, that upon itself depends henceforward the execution of the treaty of July 4, the treaty, except on terms incompatible with the honor and independence of the United States, and persuaded, that, on considering the correspondence now submitted to you, you can regard it in no other light, it becomes my duty to call your attention to such measures as the exigencommunications between the different branches of our Government shall be persisted in. This pretension is rendered the more unreasonable by the fact, that the substance of the more unreasonable by the fact, that the substance of France may compel us to pursue. They at least deserve to be met by adequate preparation on our part, and I to be met by adequate preparation on our part, and I therefore strongly urge large and speedy preparations for the president was the next step on the measures which hostile movements on the part of calmiess instead of anger. What was the next step on the calmies instead of anger. What was the next step on the part of the measures which hostile movements on equivalent of a pecuniary con ideration. Does France desire only a declaration that we had no intention to obtain our rights by an address to her fears rather than to her justice? She has already had it, frankly and explicitly given by our Minister accredited to her Government, his act ratified by me, and my confirmation of it officially communicated by him, in his letter to the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, of the 25th of April, 1835, and repeated by my published approval of that letter after the passage of the sill of indemnification. Does France want a degrading, servile repetition of this act, in terms which she shall dictate, and which will involve an acknowledgement of her assumed right to interfere in our domestic councils She will never obtain it. The spirit of the American people, the dignity of the Legislature, and the firm resolve of their Executive Government, forbid it.

As the answer of the French Minister to our Charge d'Affaires at Paris, contains an allusion to a letter addressed by him to the representative of France at this place, it now becomes proper to lay before you the correspondence had between that functionary and the Secretary of State relative to the latter, and to accompany the same with such explanations as will enable you to understand the course of the executive in regard to it. Recurring to the historical statement made at the commencement of your session, of the origin and progress of our difficulties with France, it will be recollected that, on the return of our Minister to the United States, I caused my official approval of the explanations he had given to the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, to be made public. As the French Government without its being officially conhad noticed the message without its being officially communicated, it was not doubted that, if they were - disposed municated, it was not doubted that, if they were disposed to pay the money due to us, they would notice any public explanation of the Government of the United States in the explanation of the Government of the same way. But, contrary to these well founded expectations, the French Ministry did not take this fair opportunity to relieve themselves from their unfortunate position, and to do justice to the United States.

Whilst, however, the Government of the United States was awaiting the movements of the French Government in perfect confidence that the difficulty was at an end, the Secretary of State received a call from the French Charge d'Affaires in Washington, who desired to read to him a letter he had received from the French Minister of Foreign Affairs. He was asked whether he was instructed or directed to make any official communication, and replied that he was only authorized to read the letter, and farnish a copy if requested. The substance of its contents, it is presumed, may be gathered from Nos 4 and 6, herewith transmitted. It was an attempt to make known to the Government of the United States, privately, in what manner it could make explanations, apparently voluntary, but really dictated by France, acceptable to her, and thu obtain payment of the twenty-five millions of francs. No exception was taken to this mode of communication, which is often used to prepare the way for official intercourse, but the suggestions made in it were in their substance who ly inadmissible. Not being in the shape of an otheral communication to the Government, it did not admit of reply or official notice, nor could it safely be made the basis of any action by the Executive or the Legislature; and the Secretary of State did not think proper to ask a copy, because he could have no use for it. Copies of papers, marked numbers 9, 10, and 11, show an attempt on the part of the French Charge d'Affaires, many weeks afterwards, to place a copy of this paper among the archives of this Government, which for obvious reasons was not allowed to be done; but the assurance before given cas repeated, that any official communication which he might be authorized to make in the accustomed form, would receive a prompt and just consideration. The iniscretion of this attempt was made more manifest by the subsequent avowal of the French Charge d'Affaires, that t was to bring this letter before Congress and the American people. If foreign agents, on a subject of disabetw en their governments and this, wish to prefer a) appeal to the American people, they will hereafter, it is hoped, better appreciate their own rights, and the respect due to others, than to attempt to use the Executive to the character of our institutions, that the diplomatic in-tercourse of this Government should be conducted with the utmost directness and simplicity, and that in all cases of portance the communications received or made by the Executive should assume the accustomed official form. It by insisting on this form, that foreign powers can be held to full responsibility; that their communications can be officially replied to; or that the advice or interference of the Legislature can, with propriety, be invited by the President. This course is also best calculated, on one hand, to shield that officer from unjust suspicions, and, on the other, to subject this portion of his acts to public scratiny; and if occasion should require it, to constitutional annualversion. It was the more necessary to adhere to these principles in the instance in question, inas-

It will be perceived that this letter of the French Min ster of Foreign Affairs was read to the Secretary of the 11th of September last. This was the first indication of the specific views of the French Covernment, received by the Government of the United S after the passage of the bill of indemnification. Inasmuch medias, in addition to other important interests, it very intimately concerns the national honor; a matter, in my judgment, much too sacred to be made the subject of private

ANDREW JACKSON.

Washington, Jan. 15th, 1836.

Monday, Jan. 18.—Two messages were received from the President of the United States, the one a special message on the subject of our relations with France, in which the President states that France still peremptorily refuses terms which are dictated by himself, and under these circumstances, recommending that our Navy be increased, and that a law be passed, prohibiting the importation of French vessels into our ports ; -- the other in answer to the Secretary of State, and also the letter of M. were not left to ourselves, but that they are dictated in terms by the French Government. They were dictated by the Duc de Broglie to Mr Barton, and they were these—that the de Broglie to Mr Barton, and they were these—that the American Government had never, even in thought (pensee was the word) intended to dispate the good faith of the French Government. It goes even further, and tells us in advance, in anticipation of the action of the government, that if such apology was not offered, things would have to remain as they stood previous to this negotiation; and, in a final letter to Mr Barton, the Minister states the American Government now knew that it depended on itself whether the treaty would be fulfilled or not. All doubts on the subject, therefore, were removed; and the course of the United States was now as plain as a sun-beam. Unless an apology, on the terms prescribed, were offered, the treaty was not to be fulfilled. Such an apology, he believed the American people would never and a very popular combination of wit and rhyme. Mand a pology, he believed the American people would never sanction; and he hoped, and believed, when this message reached France, it would induce her to change her determination. He expressed his full and perfect confidence in the honesty and fidelity of the President. He knew him to be peculiarly sensitive to all the wrongs inflicted on this country, and to be eager to redress them; and he had anticipated a message couched in still stronger terms than that which had been received. He was glad, however, to see the mild and calm tone of the message, recommending nothing like nonnder these impressions he had not, for a moment, believed at the peace of these countries could be disturbed, and least all that we should enter into actual year with I the speech of the gentleman from Pennsylvania had led a to apprehend the worst consequences. He would not that war was intended by the President, but he would say anguage of the President evinced, as far as his capacity and disposition to war. He would go still further, and was bound in candor to say, declare that from the being of this controversy, the only course which could have plunged us in a war, was the very course pursued by the administration. His love of country, his regard for all interests, his attachment to justice, all compelled him to say, that if war should ensue, we are the authors of it, and that we shall

Yet notwithstanding these impediments, the bill was lost to receive the subsequent course of France with great mildmending a course very little short of actual war, in order to compel France to pay the money. This was the next in the series of impediments. The French King brought the subject before the Chambers, and, in spite of all difficulties, If this array of military force be reany designed to a feet the action of the Government and the people of the United States, on the questions now pending between the United States, on the questions now pending between the appropriation bill was passed with an amendment. He presumed, that in acceding to this amendment, the French presumed, that in acceding to this was their only apole. ogy for yielding. He had not enjoyed the opportunity of aring all the correspondence, but he was well satisfied with the explanations, and he thought the letter from the French Minister to the Charge ought to have been transmitted, in order to show the true feeling which prevailed character, and to the world.

The House of Representatives, at the close of the last session of Congress, unanimously resolved, that the treaty of the 4th of July, 1831, should be maintained, and its execution insisted on by the United States. It is due to the welfare of the human race, not less than to our own interests and honor, that this resolution should, at all hazards, be adhered to. If, after so signal an example as that given by the American people, during their long protracted difficulties with France, of forbearance under accumulated wrongs, and of generous confidence in her ultimate return difficulties with France, of forbearance under accumulated wrongs, and of generous confidence in her ultimate return to justice, she shall now be permitted to withhold from us for this five millions of dollars. The first discharge of cannon arms; this leads to still further arming, until at last, it will be impossible to avoid war.

Mr Cuthbert made a few remarks, asking if we were to refrain from arms from dread of an enemy. Were we to remain with our arms tolded? Such language was enough to make every American's blood boil-in his veins. Shame, shame, that such sentiments should come from such a quarter. It was impossible for him to sit still and hear him.

Mr Puthburn said a few words in evulgnation, after which Mr Buchanan said a few words in explanation, after which the message was referred.

The other business of the day was of minor importance.

There is a great deal of good stuff in the Legislato pay the amount claimed by the United States, under the ture. The manner in which the House adhered to its Treaty of 1831, unless an apology shall be tendered, in original order relative to Banks, is indicative of a more firm and independent spirit than that which governed the conduct of the popular branch during the previous session. of French Silks, &c., and also prohibiting the entrance The monopolists have but little hope of being able to withdraw from the people many more of their rights and privi-Clay, calling for information concerning the letter from leges. While the motion to print the Message was pending,—
Mr Buchanan rose, and expressed the high gratification which he had felt on hearing the message read. He said that he had watched, with an intense interest, the progress of our negociations with France. He had flattered himself that was no materially assisted by General Lafayette, the just claims of this Country would be allowed. But these hopes had turned out to be vain. He had looked with a perfect assurance, and a moral certainty, to the effects of the last message of the President, as being entirely satisfactory to the French Government. But he deeply regretted to find that this would not be sufficient to satisfy the French Government, unless that Government should change its expressed determination. It was distinctly affirmed by the French minister, that the 25 millions must be demanded officially, in writing; accompanied by what he believed, and he thought it impossible but that all would believe, a degrading apology. And what struck him as remarkable was, that the terms of this apology were not left to ourselves, but that they are dictated in terms by the French Government. They were dictated in terms by the French Government. They were dictated in terms by the French Government. They were dictated in terms by the French Government. For the information, however, of persons who reside at a distance, and may be destrous of being taught the above branches, they beg leave to add, that the system is simple and natural, and will readily remove that stiffness of the arm and fingers which is so embarrassing, and which other professors are heretofore almost entirely failed to accomplish.

In the department of Book-Keping, Messrs. R. & S. have had much personal experience, and have also derived valuable information from several eminent merchants of this city, information from several eminent merchants of this city, which embles them to combine the elementary instructions of the muster, with the practical improvements of the merchant. They propose to initiate young gentlemen, who are about entering upon Commercial Business, not to teach merchants. They do not pretend to have made any new inventions or discoveries, but will, in all cases follow the most approved precedents of mercantile experience, and give their pupils such practice, as will enable them, when they arrive at the Counting house, to transact business with precision and mespatch.

PHELPS' ARCANUM.—This Syrup is cele brated for the Cure of Scrofula, Eruptions or Diseases of the skin, Syphilis or Venereal Complaints, Rhadmatism, Ulcers in the Throat and other parts of the Blody, Mercurial Affections, Liver Complaints, Diseases of the Blody, Deep scated pains in the Muscles, Bones, &c. and a regenerator of emadated and broken Constitutions, caused by disease, intemperance, &c.

emaglated and broken Constitutions, caused by disease, intemperance, &c.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

Having been made acquainted with the medical qualities and witnessed the effects of "Dr Phelps? Arcanum," I feel much confidence in saying it is a preparation of medicine greatly superior to any thing of the kind, in curing those chronic discases for which it is intended, and recommend it to invalids in preference to any other article whatever.

SAMUEL L. MITCHELL, M. D.

New York, March 25, 1830.

My knowledge of the properties and operation of the "Arcanum of Dr Phelps," justify me in saying that it is far superior to any deparative syrup with which I am acquainted. In the most obstinate and ambiguous doseases, it displays effects peculiarly surprising. In those affections that resist the skill of the physician, such as Rheumatism, Syphilis, Scrofum, Ulcerations, and Diseases of the Skin, &c., I would recommend it as worthy of great confidence.

Philadelphia. Nov. 27, 1829.
For the last few years I have suffered excessively by a Billious Mercurial Disease, which has rendered me frequently unfit for duty, and confined me as often to my berth. My diease was the sequela of bad treatment, while in the more tropical latitudes, and laboring under an acute inflamation of the liver, and other Billiary organs. Prior and pubsequently to our arrival in this port, I have had recourse to a great variety of prescriptions, medicines and nostrums—among which, were a number of bottles of Swaim's Panacea, Potter's Catholicon, the Rob of Laffecteur, &c., but without any benefit.—Dr Phelps being at that time a student of medicine in the University of Pennsylvania, advised me to make use of a newly discovered medicine, the Arcanum, which he believed would succed in relieving me, in consequence of the very signal effects himself and others had observed in its operation in various glandular diseases, that were otherwise considered incurable. I commenced its use accordingly, and it affords me pleasure to tommenced its use accordingly, and it affords me pleasure to state, that for several months past, not a vestige of the original or secondary disease has been discoverable. I prize the medicine above all others with which I have ever been acquainted. It is both pleasant and I believe certain it its effects, as a remedy in a variety of chronic diseases, incident to tropical another climates.

Savannah, 6th March, 1831.

Gent.—I cannot refrain from expressing my gratitude to you in offering me a bottle of Dr Phelps' Arcanum, as an experiment in my case of Rheumatism. I have been dreadfully afflicted for upwards of twelve months, and for the last four or five months have scarcely been able to walk. I have used a dozen bottles of Swaim's Panacea, and found very little benefit from it. After taking the bottle of Arcanum, I found such a change in my whole system, that I was induced to try another, and to my surprise, the pains in mylegs all disappeared, and the Ulcers in one have completely healed up, and I can walk nearly as well as ever. I shall continue to take two bottles more, and firmly believe it will make a complete cure of my disease.

I remain, gentlemen, yours very respectfully, JNO. MORRALL.

Extract of a letter from Dr Jones, a highly respectable physician, dated Baton Rogue, Louisiana, Dec. 28, 1833.—
The Arcanum had two powerful competitors, waim's Panacea, and Potter's Catholicon, which have been for years in circulation in this place. As far as I have had an opportunity of ascertaining its virtues, I believe the Arcanum to be superior to any article of the kind, yet affered to the public. I prescribed it in a case of Irritable Ulcer of three years standing, situated on the Malleolus Extrenus—the individual thus afflicted was much emmented and debilitated,—after one week's stendance, I put him upon the Arcanum, following the directions three buttles nearly effected a cure of the ulcer and bud illy health.

I prescribed it in several Mercurial and Syphilitic Affections, where it proved salutary. I am at this time trying the Arcanom on an individual, who has been laboring under Ulcerous affections of one of his legs, for fifteen years,—he has taken I bottle only, and it has produced that effect, he is sanguine in the belief, it will effect a permanent cure.

Swelled Beam Windlass Bedsteads, which, for comfort and convenience is undoubtedly the best article yet invented; its chief peculiarity is that of the Swelled Beam, the effect of which is to produce a crowning, and elastic sacking, and effectually provides against its saging. They are easily set up or taken down, and may be saved in case of fire as easily as any other piece of furniture, and from its mode of construction less liable to harbor insects than any other kind; but above all its advantages is the ease and comfort obtained from the sacking, by means of its being made and kept elastic by means of the Swelled Beam, (the form of which is exhibited in the above cut.)
